

Donald Faison and Jaime Pressly at "Hot in Hollywood"

Courteney Cox Arquette and Reese Witherspoon at the Comedy Store

David Arquette at the Comedy Store

"The only thing celebrity is good for is getting a good table at a club and raising money for people who need it."

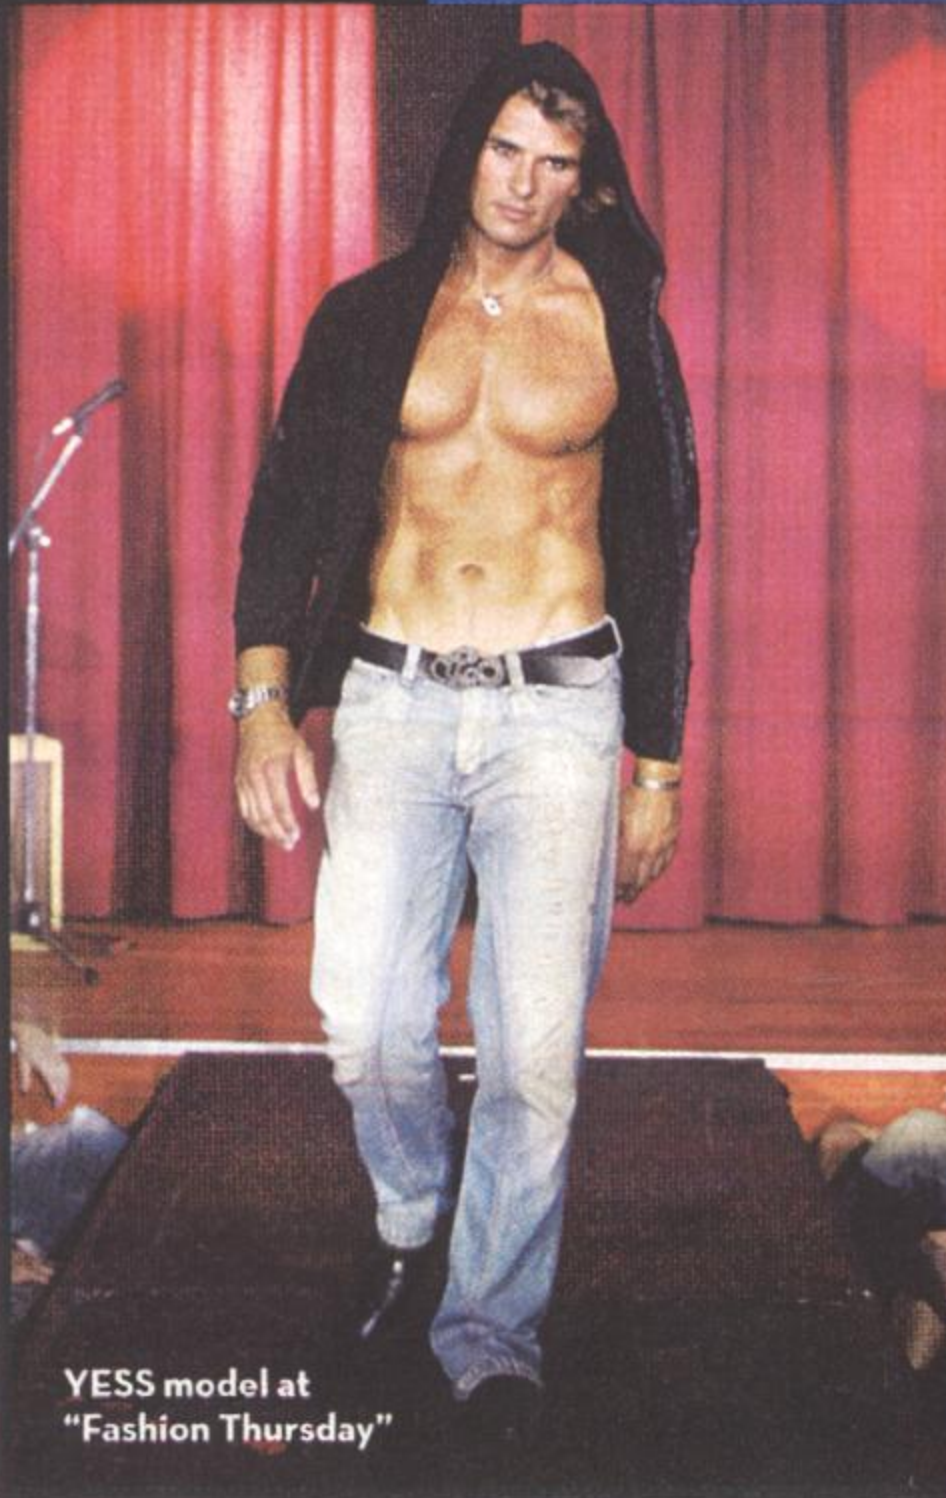

— JAIME PRESSLY at "Hot in Hollywood"

SEEN
Queen for a Night

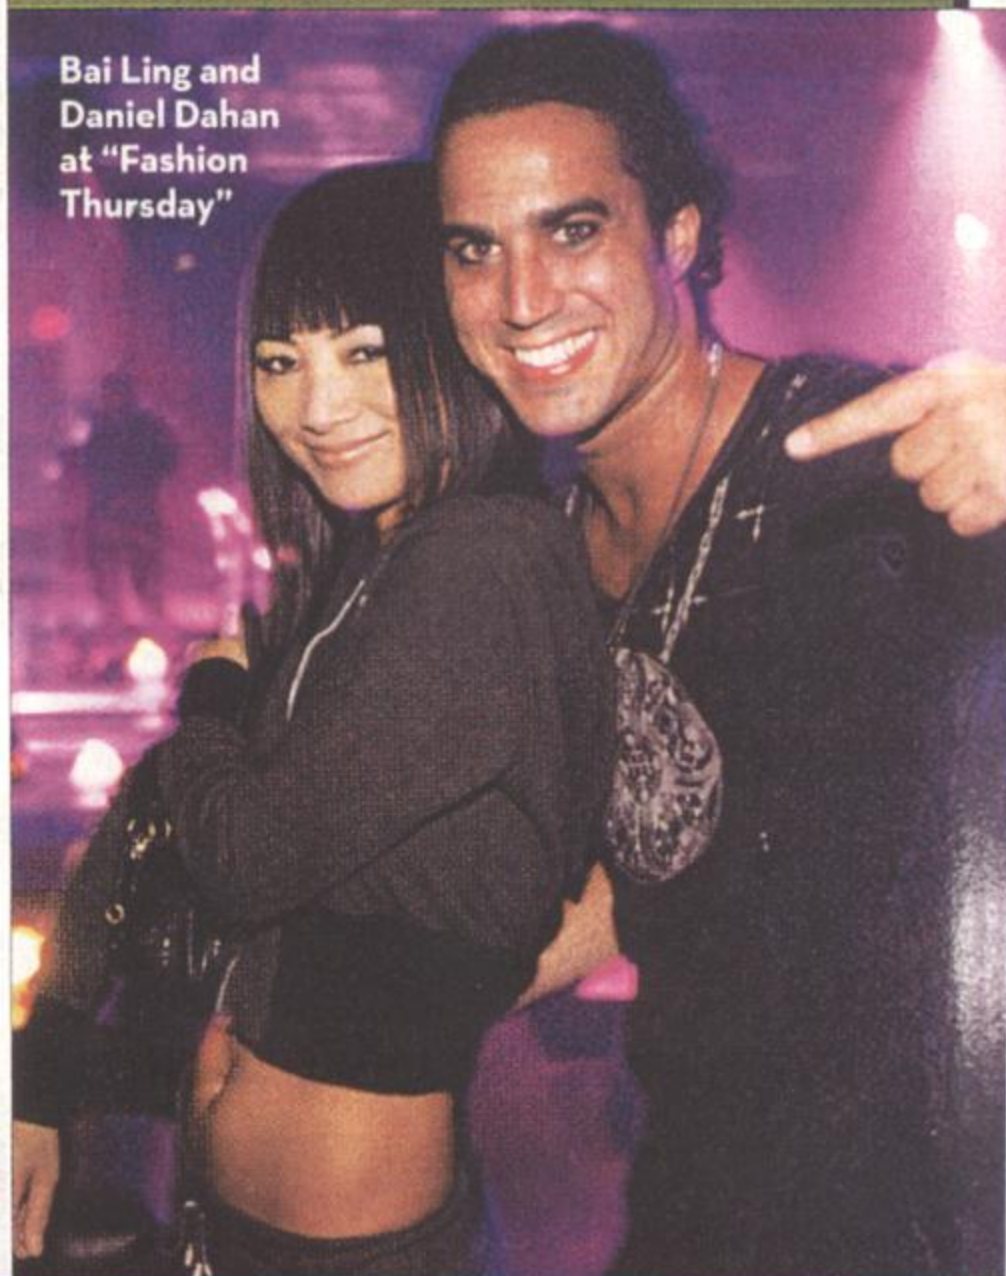

"WHAT DO YOU HAVE TO BE TO HANG around Michael Jackson?" drag queen Bel Air asked while calling a game of bingo at the Comedy Store. "B14." The event, sponsored by Kinerase, raised money to fight the childhood illness known as EB. Courteney Cox Arquette, hubby David, his sis Rosanna, and Reese Witherspoon picked up dobbers for the cause. "Fashion Thursday" hit the club Element again with a Troy Kingdom runway show and YESS models bash. Bai Ling did an interpretive dance on the catwalk at the midnight festivities, and Angelyne drew stares outside in her pink Vette. The Henry Fonda Music Box Theater hosted "Hot in Hollywood," which benefited the AIDS Healthcare Foundation. The tongue-in-cheek variety show was emceed by Jaime Pressly, who flipped Deadwood's Paula Malcomson the bird as she attempted to upstage the My Name Is Earl star during the live auction. — K.M.

"I'll match the high bid, but I don't want that in my house."

— COURTENEY COX, declining sports stuff during the auction, at the Comedy Store

YESS model at "Fashion Thursday"

Bai Ling and Daniel Dahan at "Fashion Thursday"

Victoria Justice and Matthew Underwood at "Hot in Hollywood"

"There's nothing I like better than bingo and drag queens."

— RICKI LAKE at the Comedy Store

COMEDY STORE: JEFF VESPA/WIREIMAGE; ELEMENT: MICHAEL BEZJIAN/